

Using 10 mm or Size N crochet hook, you will get a 42" wide by 36" long baby blanket.

Tips

- The colours are changed at the end of each row. This give the illusion of the vintage white zig zag pattern. It reminds me of white sugar piping on the side of a trendy modern grey cake.
- There is no border on this baby blanket.
- If changing the size of the pattern, the stitch multiples are in sets of 2. If changing the size, it will alter the amount of yarn needed for your project. Every 2 stitches = 1 inch.

Using Bernat Blanket Pale Grey, chain 78. DC twice in 4th chain from hook. *skip 1 stitch, 2 dc into next stitch (this forms a group of 2). Repeat * until end. 1 dc in the final chain. Fasten off and turn.

1. Fasten on Vintage White on first dc.
Ch 3, skip the next dc and dc twice into the space between the next group of 2. See picture for clarification. * Dc twice in each space between the groups of 2 from the row below. Repeat * until the end. 1 dc in the final stitch. Fasten off and turn. By going between the groups of 2, it causes the stitches to have a zig zag appearance.
2. Fasten on Pale Grey on first dc. Repeat Step 2.
3. Continue to repeat Steps 2 - 3 until your afghan is 36" long. You will run out of yarn by the end.
