Errors

It's very difficult, at least for us, to produce a pattern that is error free as our patterns are complex. We write our patterns in the same format as Yarnspirations for consistency.

- First printing of the book was done in July 2021.
- Crocheters were starting to work on the book and errors were detected by our community during the first edition.
- The second printing happened at the end of September 2021 and more errors were located.
- The third printing, if ever scheduled will catch all of the errors that are currently shown but it is unknown if the book will go to a third printing at this time.

The first edition of the book doesn't have a print number on the inside of the cover.

At this time, Kindle Versions, that automatically update on everyone's devices is the second edition.

Some errors are opinions but we focused on technical errors the most.

ERRORS ARE IN RED.
CORRECTIONS IN BLUE.

Fixed Errors in First Edition that will not appear in the Second Edition.

In story line:

Page 30 and 31: People complained about the picture order, we agree, it's in the wrong spot. We moved it so the story wasn't broken up.

Page 49: Tester Nancy Elliott's name was misspelled. The spacing issue between the Gauge. DK in the sentence structure. Added () around #3 Weight for consistency.

Page 53: Word sunset has the T cut off of the name. An N is cut off the word of reflection.

Page 64: Stitch key shows half-double crochet. That's not used in the pattern. To be removed.

Heritage Nova Scarf:

Page 86: Stitch key should read Extended Single Crochet. It says Extend.

Page 87: It states to follow special instructions. It should have stated follow special stitches.

Successful Craft Show:

Kindles have all of the changes above.

I put this in as I thought it would be helpful as it's a sub-abbreviation. Dc2tog in instructions refers to a back post that should be removed.
